The Union Picnic

The committee on arrangements for the union Sunday school picnic to be held at Homosassa on the 30th inst., is hard at work getting all of the details arranged, so that the picnic will be a success. The indications are that nearly everyone will join the procession. The accommodations will be ample. There will be plenty of room on the train and plenty of ice water on the ground.

The committee was unanimous in prohibiting the carrying of firearms and whiskey, and will put off of the train anyone found with either in his possession.

The picnic is gotten up for the pleasure of the children and the committee will see to their comfort.

All housewives are requested to tag their baskets so that they may be safely returned.

The ice cream privilege is for sale. Particulars may be had by applying to C. H. Dame.

The committee is composed as follows:

Baptist—J. Stevens, J. T. Lancaster and L. F. Billard.

Christian—C. H. Dame and H. C. Groves.

Presbyterian—J. J. Gerig and Clifford Anderson.

A Birthday Dinner

A very pleasant dinner was served at the Ford residence last evening in honor of Mr. H. A. Ford's forty-ninth birthday. The repast was one of simple elegance and served with great tact and skill. Those present besides the family were Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Munroe, Robert Munroe and sister, Miss Abbie, Mrs. Geo. K. Robinson and Mr. William Dale. The occasion was greatly enjoyed, and the guests, on departing, wished genial Mr. Ford a thousand and just as happy birthdays, and that they might all assist him in celebrating them.

THE GRADUATES OF 1899

Closing Exercises of the Ocala High School

The graduates of the Ocala High School held their exercises in the Opera House last night, and the aspirants for "sheepskins" did not lack a lusty audience, who were as pronounced in their expressions of appreciation for the creditable manner in which the fair essayists deputed themselves as they were numerically strong.

Like all such gatherings, it was distinctly a home aggregation; the father, mother, sister, brother, lover, sweetheart, friend, admirer, and they who took a general and commendable interest in our schools and the work done in them were there to give their hearty approval of all that the young graduates said and did.

After some time had elapsed beyond the time announced for the exercises to begin, fully three quarters of an hour, Prof. J. J. Earle, principal of the school, stepped to the front and announced that, in the absence of Rev. T. J. Nixon of the Methodist church, Rev. S. H. Forrer of the Christian church would open the exercises with prayer.

It was just such a prayer as such an occasion called for.

Then the High School Double Quartet sang in fine voice "The Lily and the Rose." Miss Grace Gaffney played the accompaniment.

Miss Iva Augustine Standley, a petit and charming young miss, opened the essayistical hour with many lovely thoughts, beautifully expressed, on the ever old, but ever fresh, theme of "Friendship."

Miss Mary D. Taylor essayed in a very pleasing manner, and in language and style that left nothing desired, on "Judgment of the World."

It was a thoughtful production and showed only too plainly how the world heedlessly, in most cases, and without a due consideration of the subject matter, passes harsh and, in some cases, cruel judgment upon persons, that, because of the rarity of Christian charity in the minds, hearts and tongues of persons, bring a blighted life and a ruined home.

Miss Belle Mathews enlivened the interlude with a violin solo of decided merit, accompanied by Mr. Earl Mark on the piano.

"Not for School, but for Life," was the theme of one of the best essays of the evening by Miss Gillimae Smoak, and treated it in a masterly manner.

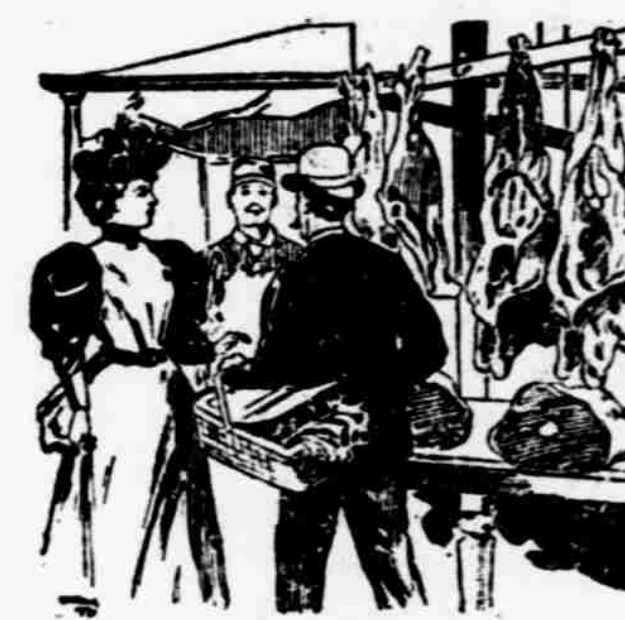

As part illustration of her subject, she ably touched on the life and achievements of Kentucky's greatest and most famed statesman, Henry Clay, how, without opportunities and against obstacles that have discouraged tens of thousands, "the mill boy of the slashes," fired with a noble ambition and unflinching determination to succeed, carved on the walls of fame immortality. At the age of eleven years he could not read. At twenty-eight he dominated the national legislature with his eloquence and logic.

Another apt illustration was the success that attended the life labors of Bacon, England's profoundest thinker and grandest teacher.

These instances emphasize the salient points of Miss Smoak's theme, and that our hours of study and thought are not alone for school, but to accompany us through life.

Miss Smoak read with a deliberation and distinction of enunciation that made every word au-
